

Thomas Nicolai Pedersen

Thomas Nicolai Pedersen is the team leader for EU and international policy at the Ministry of Green Transition, where he oversees the ministry's EU and international policies and negotiations. Before joining the Ministry of Green Transition, he worked for several years at the Ministry of the Environment.

He holds a Ph.D. and has worked as a researcher at Aarhus University. He has a strong background in research and consulting on sustainable development.

Prior to his role at the Ministry of Green Transition, Thomas Nicolai Pedersen held key positions in the Ministry of the Environment, including team leader for international policy development and chief negotiator for EU and global environmental agreements. His extensive experience includes managing negotiation processes and chairing international negotiations.